ANESTHESIOLOGY REFLECTIONS FROM THE WOOD LIBRARY-MUSEUM

Gas, Ether, and Jingles from Dr. C. A. Smith of Oneida

Die-cut in the shape of a tambourine with six pairs of jingles, the obverse (left) of this trade card distributed by Dr. C. A. Smith features two egg-filled shoes. Another classic from the Wood Library-Museum's Ben Z. Swanson Collection, the card's reverse (right) invites patients to Dr. Smith's dental office (and residence) on Main Street in Oneida, New York. Among his advertising jingles for Oneida residents, Dr. Smith advertised that there was a "Lady always in attendance when Ladies desire Gas or Ether."
